THOUSANDS WILL FLOCK TO CITY

Wednesday Will' Be Great Day, and Richmond Will Be Filled to Overflowing With Country People Anxious to See and Honor Mr. Roosevelt.

After a lengthy session held last night in the City Hall and devoted largely if not entirely to a further consideration of the list of those to be honored with invitations to Masonic Temple luncheon, the council committee entrusted with the arrangements for the reception of President Roosevelt upon his visit to Riennext week adjourned to meet again Tuesday afternoon at 5 o'clock, declining

Tuesday afternoon at 5 o'clock, declining in the meanwhile to inform the public in any particular of the progress of its work during the past months.

Such information as is obtainable with reference to an event of absorbing interest to the people of Richmond and the entire State must be gathered from many sources and is always without that official sanction for which many have walted so long. In fact, it is understood that the committee is so adverse to allowing its proceedings, conducted behind closed doors, to become known at this lowing its proceedings, conducted behind closed doors, to become known at this time that the publication of some of its decisions has created the suspicion of a "lead" and has provoked sharp criticism from several of the members. It is further learned in this connection that the programme for the day has been definitely arranged, has been submitted to the President himself, and has been approved by him. Notwithstanding this, it is not possible as yet to give the official announcement though the details are fairly well known.

official announcement though the details are fairly well known.

It was determined last night, according to a report after the meeting, that 400 people should attend the luncheon. The list of those who will be seated with the President is not yet complete. The interior of the Temple will be magnificently decorated with flowers and the national colors and the luncheon itself will unquestionably be one of the most brilliant affairs of its kind ever held in this State.

Indications now point to an indux of visitors that will for the day of the President's visit swell the population of Richmond to unfonted proportions. It will be a State event in its way and Virginians from all points will be here to greet the Chief Magistrate of the land. The importance of the event has not been mistaken by the people of the State and the streets of the city will be thronged Wednesday with strangers. The people of Virginia who flock to Richmond in the most beautifut and claborate holiday dress she has ever doned. Richmond is preparing for the coming of the President as one man. DIES SUDDENLY

They Will Throng Broad Sir Henry Irving Expired Soon After Leaving the Theatre.

NO INTIMATION OF HIS DEATH

He Had Just Returned to His Hotel at Bradford After Playing Becket, When He Sustained An Attack of Syncope.

LONDON, October 13.—The English speaking world has suffered an irreparable loss by the sudden death to-night of Sir Henry Irving, who was universally regarded as the most representative English actor of contemporary Umes.

Sir Henry died literally in hurness. He was giving a series of farewell performances in the English provinces and this week was playing an engagement at Bradford, appearing in several favorite roles. Thursday he presented "King Rene's Daughter" and "The Belles," and seemed to be in excellent health, taking the exhausting part of Matthias in the latter play with all the vigor of youth. To-night, before an enthusiastic audience, he portrayed one of his most characteristically intellectual parts, the tite role in his own stage adaptation of Lord Tenneyson's "Becket," with marked success.

After the performance Sir Henry returned to his hotel, reaching his rooms at 11:39 o'clock, when it was observed that he was in great pain. Physicians were immediately summoned, but before they could arrive Sir Henry was selzed with an attack of syncope and expired within a few minutes, without having uttered a word, in the presence of Bram Stoker, who had been his immediate manager for many years, and a few other intimate friends. The event caused the greatest pain and consternation among the members of the company.

The Associated Press to-night received the following telegram from Sir Henry Irving's manager, Bram Stoker:

"Very terrible news. Sir Henry Irving had an attack of syncope after returning from the theatre to the hotel to-night, and died suddenly."

Raised the Standard.

To the last moment of his life, Sir Lenvi Market, best was fife the west.

Raised the Standard. Raised the Standard.

To the last moment of his life, Sir Henry Irving's heart was in the work to which he had devoted his career—the raising the standard of his art. On Wednesday he was entertained at luncheon in the Bradfoard town hall, at which the mayor presented him an address from his admirers, in replying to the address, Sir Henry spoke of himself as one, the sands of whose life were fast running out, but no one then present fast running out, but no one then pres-ent had the slightest idea that the end ent had the slightest idea that the end would come so soon. He proceeded in his reply to eloquently advocate the establishment of theatres by municipalities, "because," he said, "I believe that by this means the standard of the true drama as distinguished from miscellaneous entertainments, would be successfully upheld.

fully upheld. Sir Henry's last appearances in Lon-Sir Henry's last appearances in London were made last summer, following his serious illness, when the enthusiasm at the nightly receptions accorded him in the historic Drury Lane Theatre will long be remembered. Since then he has been engaged in touring the provinces and contemplated another visit to the United States.

His Career.

Sir Henry Irving whose name.

Sir Henry Irving, whose name was originally John Henry Brodribb, was born near Glastonburg England, Febru-ary 6, 1838. He was for a time a clerk in London; but adopted the theatrical Manchester, where he remained for five or six years. He returned to London in 1966, where his first marked success was as Digby Grant in Albury's "Two Roses." This was in 1870, and was followed by his nowerful impersonation of Mathias, in "The Bells."

His next noleworthy parts were Charles I. Eugene Aram and Richellen, in the plays so named. In 1874, at the Lyceum Theatre, he sustained the part of Hamlat so successfully as to raise himself to the first place among English actors. His chief Shakespearian parts are Macbeth, Othelio, Shylock and Richard III.

He leased the Lyceum Theatre in 1878 and put on from time to time various of Shakesneare's plays, sustaining in them the principal character and supported by Miss Ellen Terry.

Among his more recent roles were Recket, in Tennyson's play, King Arthur, Napoleon in "Madame Samssene."

Department of Agriculture, received $45,507.

The indictment, which was found by a grand jury in Washington on October 3d, is against Edwin S. Holmes, Jr., and L. C. Van Riper, as well as against Haas and Peckham; and charges all four collectively with having conspired to defraud by procuring advance information from Holmes concerning the government's cotton crop report. It sets forth in full many copies of tolegrams and also checks which passed between the accused, tending to show that a conspiracy existed.

One of the checks, dated December 12, 1904, drawn on the Second National Bank of Hoboken, and signed Lewis Van Riper, calls for the payment of $24,250 to M. Haas, of which sum it is alleged Haas paid Holmes $14,250 in cash. Many other minor checks for sums ranging from $100 to $500, are set forth in the indictment, in addition to another check signed by Van Riper and payable to Haas on the same bank for $38,292, dated December 31, 1904. Of this sum it is claimed Holmes got $10,767.

cember 31, 1904. Of this sum it is claimed Holmes got $10,767. Counsel for the defense to-day moved for the discharge of the prisoners on the ground that the charges, as alleged, did not constitute an offense against the government. The hearing on the motion adjourned until October 21st. Ball was fixed at $10,000 each, which was furnished.

Hicks, of Chilhowle, Va., who had been arraigned before the Conference trial committee on the charge of nisconduct unbecoming a minister in having accepted a dare to plant a kiss on the lips of a fair lady in his congregation. The convicted minister, not pleased with the verdict, announced that he would with the verdict, announced that he would appeal the case, stating several grounds. The conference to-day passed a resolution commending President Roosevelt for the part he played in the peace negotiations between Japan and Russia, and directed that a copy of the resolution be sent to the President.

A class of thirteen young men was passed from the first to the second

Professor MeBray, colored, president of Lane Institute for the education of colored people, at Jackson, Tenn., addressed the conference, to-day, making a very able appeal for the higher education of the negro. He referred to the statistics of his institution as proof against the idea advanced by some people that to educate the negro is to make his condition worse. To life the race from ignorance, he said, was to do away with the dark crimes that have been so great a detriment to the colored race. This afternoon the conference listened to a recital by the young ladies of Sulling Colege, and to-night heard Bishop E. E. Hoss, in his great lecture on the subject of missionaries. FAST BALL GAME AS HOT AS GINGER

Contest This Afternoon Between Carlisle and Virginia Will Be Very Fast.

"We will have something for the press when the game is ended to-morrow."

CARLISLE CAPTAIN.

Game called promptly at 3:30.

With odds of two to one against them, the Virginia eleven ambled around Igiginonal last night and silently and without undue publicity placed all the money the boys of the University could raise that the Carlisle Indians would be minus a scalp when they leave Virginia's Capital city to-night. No one seemed to know from whence the money came, nor did any one make himself so inquisitive as tr ask. Suffice it that the bets on the Redmen were covered, and there was semething left for to-day's rooting.

Virginia's eleven reached Richmond yesterday and are quartored at the Jefferson Hotel. Upon the tanbark, where the bue-blood of Virginia's horses prance around at night, the gridlion gladiators made their formation plays yesterday afternoon. They did the tackling act, and they bucked the line-the ends were tried and the punling was done. It was all there and the coach, who bosses the men who was the padded suits, seemed per-and the punting was done. It was all there and the coach, who bosses the men who wear the padded suits, seemed perfeetly satisfied with the manner of practice.

The Indians stole into camp at 7:30 last evening. They had tomahawks and torches, and they were ready for the scrimmage. The paint, they said, would be applied this afternoon. The game is to be at Broad Street Park, and there will be war, like of which is seldom witnessed in Virginia between two olevens. Carlisle is the favorite with the betting element; the reason for this no one seems to be able to explain. An undercurrent of sentiment says that the Redmen will be the winners in to-day a contest of skill and brawn. If they do there will be cheering and rah, rah-ing in twenty-two tongues. For the pupils at the Carlisle school this year are from twenty-two tribes, and they all speak different dia cots.

A Splendid Race.

As Mir, Hyde gave the word, "go," Mr. Galloway "sprung" his four and went away at a hard sullon. Fownes followed close behind, and the cilip was merry. Away down the Hermitage Road to the Missing Link, over the railroad bridge and on to the Boulevard, with Galloway leading and Fownes hanging on like glue. On the Boulevard, just at the Soldiers' Home, Fownes raced past, and it looked as though Nimrod had it all, but in turning off from the Boulevard to the auditorium, Galloway sent his four at a run away, and flying past street cars, through crowd, under the stable arch and up the incline back of the show building, drove into the ring a full minute ahead of his opponent.
